Who owns solar power in Kiribati?

The government-owned Public Utility Board supplies diesel generated power in South Tarawa. The Kiribati Solar Energy Company provides electricity to outer islands through solar home systems. Initially formed in 1984 by an NGO, the company is now owned entirely by the government. There is little private sector involvement.

What is the main source of freshwater in South Tarawa?

Groundwater is the main source of freshwater for South Tarawa and outer island residents. Due to the uneven distribution of rainfall throughout the year, rainwater is considered only as a supplementary water source. The government-run Public Utilities Board co-ordinates and manages water supply and sewage disposal on South Tarawa.

Can Kiribati land on South Tarawa?

When a passenger jet approaches South Tarawa, Kiribati's most populous island, at the end of a three-hour flight from Fiji, one wonders where it can possibly land. That is because most of the island is only a few dozen metres wide -- barely enough room, it seems, for a landing strip.

Which Pacific Islands are sourcing electricity from renewables?

Three Pacific island states -- Niue, Tuvalu and the Cook Islands -- have already set the ambitious target of sourcing all their electricity from renewable sources by 2020. Kiribati's current renewables target is 45 per cent and 60 per cent, respectively, for urban and rural areas.
